

Press Release: October 21, 2009

Since the inception of McCorquodale Transfer, we have made it our mission to serve our clients with the highest quality of moving, storage, shipping, receiving and antique handling available. We are pleased to announce the addition of our Atlanta branch office to further serve those goals. It has become clear that our presence in the Atlanta market will benefit our existing clients, and we hope to attract many new customers with McCorquodale Transfer's tradition of excellent service. We serve both business and residential clients. In Atlanta, we hope to prove ourselves and our commitment – one move at a time.

Atlanta is the main "hub" for designers and furniture retailers throughout the southeast. It has been apparent to us that our existing clients in Birmingham, Jackson, and Charleston need our services to transfer special and high value shipments from and through Atlanta. In addition, we have many clients based in Atlanta that have expressed a desire for our service in their local market. In the past, we have had to turn away requests for local moves within Georgia because we did not have staff based there. This led us to conclude that we needed to better serve our clients throughout the Southeast. The addition of an Atlanta branch office, will help McCorquodale Transfer "connect the dots" between Birmingham, Charleston, and Jackson, hopefully expanding our capabilities and making us a regional carrier.

Many families and businesses have felt the impact of the now abating recession. We are a family based company, and would like to acknowledge our loyal customers with a sincere "thank you". We understand their desire, appreciation, and commitment to our company and associates has afforded us the hard work we love. Without those who appreciate quality service, we certainly wouldn't be where we are today. Our passion to please will continue in Birmingham, Charleston, Jackson, and Atlanta. The goal is to build upon our reputation as the FINEST IN HOUSEHOLD AND OFFICE RELOCATION.

It's been an amazing fourteen years in business. We began as young men delivering furniture for local decorators to a nationally recognized moving and storage company. We attribute our successes to the associates in the trenches. Our major differentiator has been and always will be our staff. Most company presidents and managers are in meetings and shooting emails all day, every day. At McCorquodale, our branch presidents are supervising moves. That's right; they're on the trucks in-the-moment. It's a "no-brainer". The results have simply been remarkable, and we're having fun doing it.

McCorquodale moves you! Single item or the entire home or office. We will continue our quest in delivering the finest in both local and long distance – commercial and residential moving. Our service model is beloved and second to none in quality and efficiency by our customers. Let McCorquodale Transfer handle your next move, and experience the simplicity and peace of mind.
